

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

The original two volumes of the Chronological Table of Statutes, published in 1887, covered the changes in the laws of the State from 1777 to 1886 inclusive. The book was one of several that were originally compiled simply as aids to and checks in the preparation of Birdseye's Revised Statutes, Codes and General Laws of the State of New York.

To understand the scope and methods of this book, the Plan of the Work, which follows this Preface, and which is reprinted from the original edition, should be carefully studied.

In bringing the book down through the laws of 1894, it will be understood that no attempt has been made to do over again the work that was contained in the original edition. For all changes prior to 1887 the first two volumes must be consulted.

Since 1887, and especially since the publication of Birdseye's Revised Statutes, Codes and General Laws in 1890, many of the general statutes, and almost all of the remainder of the original Revised Statutes then in force, have been repealed and revised by the Statutory Revision Commission. Many important subjects yet remain to be revised, and until the work of the Commission is complete it would be quite useless to undertake to publish a new edition of the Revised Statutes, Codes and General Laws. For this reason the plan of the present work has been somewhat changed from that of the original Table of Statutes, that it may serve as a sort of a supplement also to the Revised Statutes, Codes and General Laws.

The repealing statutes of the Revision Commission have not in most cases been intended to sweep the old laws out of existence in the ordinary sense, but simply to repeal such statutes as had been incorporated into and continued in the revision. In this work, therefore, with each statute so repealed and revised, is given a reference to the section of the Statutory Construction Law, which limits and defines the scope of the repeal.

The Revision Commission have in many cases essentially, though oftentimes unintentionally, changed the law in the re-enactment. In construing any part of this revision it is desirable, often absolutely necessary, to carefully compare the old law with the new, so that these changes may be discovered. This work is intended to make this comparison simple and easy. It shows when and how such acts have been repealed, and also gives the places where the re-enactments can be found, and the reference to the old law as it appeared in Birdseye's Revised Statutes, Codes and General Laws.

In this volume certain parts of the old laws, repealed by the acts prepared by the Statutory Revision Commission, are stated to be "not re-enacted." These statements are based on the official table printed in the Laws of 1892, which has, however, been carefully revised in every reference.

In the original Revised Statutes of 1828 to 1830, New York State had the most perfect and scientific body of statutory law in the English language, if not in the world, and which almost all of her sister States and many other English speaking countries have since adopted in whole or in part. With such a foundation it should have been easy to have kept her supremacy, certainly to have maintained the standard she herself had set up. On the contrary, however, by ill-advised and partially executed attempts at revision, our statutory law has been brought into a most disgraceful and chaotic condition.

This work is not intended to give the author's ideal of the method to be pursued in revising or treating our statutes. It only takes the legislation of the State as it is, and is designed to give, in as simple and inexpensive a form as possible, a clue to be used in unraveling the terrible snarl in which our statute law has become involved.

CLARENCE F. BIRDSEYE.

PLAN OF THE WORK.

Some explanations are proper in reference to the methods pursued in treating certain classes of acts.

Only those Statutes appear in the Table which have been found to be affected by subsequent legislation, or to contain such a reference to earlier acts as required noting.

The labor of preparing this Table would have been very much lessened if it had been deemed necessary to refer only to those acts which in terms amended or repealed other acts. But, in addition to the multitude of laws relating to the same subject matters, but without any direct references to each other, there have been many thousands of acts which contained what may be called general repealing sections, that is, one which repealed "all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act," or which used some similar expression to cover a general class of acts without specifying what chapters were repealed or where they could be found. The Revisions of Jones and Varick, in 1788, of Kent and Radcliff, in 1801, and of Van Ness and Woodworth, in 1813, contained only such general repealing acts. The same is true of the Code of Procedure, L. 1848, c. 379, § 468 (388), and of many important acts relating to highways, elections, militia, taxes, &c., &c. Moreover, but few charters of cities or villages have contained any specific repealing clause.

So far as it was possible, references to such general repealing acts or sections have been made under each act believed to be affected by them, and such act has been marked as probably repealed (pr. r.) In many cases there could be no real question that the act had been actually repealed; but to have so stated absolutely would have been to usurp the place of the Courts in construing the repealing act, or of an official compiler or reviser, whose work, passed upon by the Legislature, might declare the act repealed.

All the acts relating to the same subject matter have, so far as practicable, been gathered under the principal act upon that subject, even though they did not in terms amend or otherwise modify it. For example, under the act to authorize the formation of corporations for manufacturing, mining, mechanical or chemical purposes, (Laws 1848, c. 40), there are grouped more than ninety other acts relating to these corporations, although but a few of these acts in terms declare that they amend or modify the principal act, and many do not refer to it in any way. So under the general railroad law now in force, (L. 1850, c. 140), it has been sought to collect all general chapters affecting railroads, with proper cross-references in each case to the principal act.

The same general system has been pursued wherever possible throughout the book.

CITY AND VILLAGE CHARTERS.—In addition to applying the rule last mentioned to general acts relating to cities, there are references under such acts to the charter in force at the time of their passage, and also to the subsequent charter, if any. E. g., Utica was incorporated as a city by L. 1832, c. 19, "and all former acts and parts of acts relative to the incorporation of the village of Utica," were repealed by § 69. All acts prior to 1832 are referred to such repealing section, viz.: L. 1832, c. 19, § 69. Under L. 1832, c. 19, are gathered references to acts directly affecting it or relating to general interests in the City of Utica up to the time of the next charter (L. 1849, c. 184), by which, (§ 115) "all acts in relation to the city of Utica inconsistent with the provisions of this act" were repealed. Each of such acts passed between 1832 and 1849 are referred to the charter then in force and to the repealing section in the later charter. Similar references will be found after 1849 to the next charter (1862, c. 18), and its repealing section (§ 141).

Where a village has been incorporated under a special charter, or successive special charters, the same plan of cross-references has been adopted. Where the village appears to have been incorporated under a general act, all statutes affecting that village are referred to the earliest of those acts. The cross-references in relation to city and village charters are intended to be so full that from any act relating to such city or village may be traced out all the previous and subsequent charters and other legislative enactments.

COUNTY AND TOWN BOUNDARIES.—The first acts of the Legislature defining the County and Town Boundaries of the State were those of the revision of Jones and Varick, (L. 1788, c's 63 and 64.) Under these chapters, therefore, have been grouped all the subsequent legislation on these subjects, with proper cross-references under the subsequent acts to L. 1788, c's 63 and 64.

CORPORATIONS.—Prior to the Constitution of 1846 most corporations were created by special enactments. Under such statutes have, therefore, been grouped all subsequent acts relating thereto, while under such subsequent acts will be found proper cross-references to the charter. But where any corporation has been formed under a general act, and several acts have been subsequently passed affecting it, then under the earliest of these acts the others are given with proper cross-references.

CODES.—Under the Code of Procedure, (L. 1848, c. 379), the Code of Civil Procedure, (L. 1876, c. 448), the Code of Criminal Procedure, (L. 1881, c. 442), and the Penal Code, (L. 1881, c. 676), have been given respectively all subsequent amendatory or repealing acts. Where such acts affected a chapter or title of any Code, references are given under each section in such chapter or title, as well as under the chapter or title itself. To the Penal Code has been added an alphabetical list of the acts since passed by which new classes of misdemeanors or crimes have been created.

THE NEW YORK CITY CONSOLIDATION ACT, (L. 1882, c. 410), has been treated upon the practically same plan as that followed in reference to the Codes. But so thorough was the work of the Commissioners to revise the laws relating to the City of New York, that much of the material gathered by them has been simply verified and adopted, and references made directly to their reports to show what has and what has not been included in that act. An alphabetical list of the acts generally affecting the City of New York, passed during the years 1883 to 1886, inclusive, has been appended to the Consolidation Act.

REVISIONS.—All references to the revision by Jones and Varick (J. & V.) in 1788 & 1789 are to the official folio edition of 1789, with its notes.

Acts repealed by the Revised Acts of 1801, by Kent and Radcliff, (K. & R.) or the Revised Laws of 1813, by Van Ness and Woodworth, (R. L. of 1813), are referred not only to the general repealing acts of these revisions respectively, but to the portion of the Revision which, in connection with the repealing act, is believed to have worked the repeal; see L. 1810, c. 115, (Table, p. 183). As the consecutive numbering of the Chapters was not preserved in the publication of the Revised Acts of 1801, and the Revised Laws of 1813, the pages also have been given in the references to these laws.

REVISED STATUTES.—References to the Revised Statutes have in all cases been to the statutory paging of the First Edition. This will be found the more convenient, since the Seventh Edition practically follows and retains the original paging and matter as closely as possible. The Revisers were directed by joint resolution and by L. 1828, 2nd Meeting, c. 20, § 24, to publish lists of certain acts then in force, and not revised by the Revised Statutes. References to those lists, as contained in the third volume of the Revised Statutes, have been made under all acts there found: see L. 1815, c. 176, (Table, p. 238).

In the following list, the general acts relating to New York City, passed since 1886, have been arranged alphabetically. The list does not include private acts, nor those which relate to the entire State or the cities thereof, and thus include New York City. Nor does this list cover those acts which amend the Consolidation Act, or acts passed prior to it. Such amendatory acts will be found under the original statutes. This list, with that given on pp. 1162 to 1168 in the original edition of Birdseye's Chronological Table of Statutes, is intended to give all the strictly local statutes affecting New York City passed since the Consolidation Act, and yet not directly amending that act.

CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE.

LAWS OF 1876, c. 448.

For the sake of convenience, the amendments to this Code have not been put under L. 1876, c. 448, where they would belong chronologically, but have been given in this separate table at the end, so that they may be more easily consulted.

Under this heading are given all the statutory enactments, passed since 1886, relating to the Code of Civil Procedure, including the second part of the Code (L. 1880, c. 178), the Code being considered as one Act under §§ 3355 and 3356 thereof. Following out the general plan of this work only those sections are given which are affected by subsequent legislation.

For the provisions of law governing the publication of the Code, see L. 1877, c. 416, § 3, and L. 1880, c. 522.

For definitions and regulations concerning the construction, effect and application of the Code of Civil Procedure, see §§ 3333 to 3356, and L. 1876, c. 449; also see L. 1877, c. 318.

For the general repealing acts in connection with the Code of Civil Procedure, see L. 1877, c. 417, and L. 1880, c. 245.

For the various amendments to the Code of Civil Procedure, made prior to 1887, and the cross references in the Code to other chapters, articles or sections thereof, see Vol. II of Birdseye's Chronological Table of the Statutes (1st Edition), pp. 938 to 1021.

TABLE OF REVISED STATUTES.

NOTE.—The original Revised Statutes were subdivided into parts, chapters, titles, articles and sections. By L. 1830, c. 259, § 2 (Birdseye's Revised Statutes, p. 2626), the paging of the first edition was to be retained in all subsequent reprints. Editors of the later editions have in some cases given new numbers to the titles, articles and sections, thereby introducing much confusion, especially as the legislature has in many instances referred, not to the original edition, but to the numbering of the sections in some later and unofficial edition. It has therefore been the custom to cite the Revised Statutes by the parts, chapters, titles, articles and sections, and also by the pages and sections of the original edition. In the table given below, both of these methods of citation have been followed, and the part, chapter, title, article and section have been given, together with the page of the original edition on which the various sections appeared.

The third volume of the original edition of the Revised Statutes contained no part of the revision proper, except the boundaries of the counties, towns, etc. With this exception the whole of the four parts of the revision was contained in the first two volumes. Volume I ended with Part 2, Chapter 4, and Volume II contained Part 2, Chapter 5, to Part 4, Chapter 3, inclusive.

Only a small percentage of the original number of sections of the Revised Statutes are now in force. The following table shows where the sections now in force may be found in Birdseye's Revised Statutes, and accounts for those which are no longer in force.

O. T. Art. Pages. Sections. R. S., pages.

2 1 § R. S.
1-19 1-8

This Title related to the boundaries of the several counties of the State, and with the fourth and fifth Titles of this Chapter was published, by order of the Legislature, in the third volume of the Revised Statutes. Numerous acts have been passed since 1829 creating new counties and modifying the boundaries of the older ones. A complete list of these acts will be found in Birdseye's Chronological Table of Statutes, 1st Ed. (pp. 29-31). For § 5 see Birdseye's Revised Statutes, p. 2630; § 2, subd. 20 amended by L. 1888, c. 42.

2 1 R. S.

This Title treated of the Senate districts of the State, and has been superseded by the Constitution, of 1846, Art. 3, § 4.

3 84-86 1

This Title treated of the Congressional districts, and has been superseded by later acts. For present provisions, see L. 1892, c. 295.

4 § R. S.
19-120 1-59

This Title gave the boundaries of the several towns in the State. Numerous acts have been passed since 1829 creating new towns and modifying the boundaries of the older ones. A complete list of these acts will be found in Birdseye's Chronological Table of Statutes, 1st Ed., (pp. 31-71). For § 58, see Birdseye's Revised Statutes, p. 2630.

5 121-128 1-7

This Title gave the boundaries of the cities in the State. These cities were New York, Albany, Hudson, Schenectady and Troy. The boundaries of all these cities have since been changed, and references to the present charters and boundaries will be found in Birdseye's Revised Statutes under the names of the various cities.

6 1 R. S.
86, 87 1-3 1808, 1809

87 4-6

Probably superseded by L. 1849, c. 194, and L. 1875, c. 482, conferring powers to divide towns, etc., upon boards of supervisors (see Birdseye's Revised Statutes, pp. 2866-2869, 2872-2882).
